WHAT WAS ACTUALLY
NEEDED

There are two forms of power in American politics: money and people.

Grassroots advocacy believes that, given the presentation of compelling facts, an elected official will make the right choice for the public good
(and their own self interest).

Which is more POWER-full ?

- I can make a phone call to my elected official's office.
- I can make a phone call to my elected official's office and identify myself as an active Methodist.
- I can get the Methodist Bishop of my state (who has a "bully" pulpit and a direct line to 1300 churches with 280,000 congregants) to schedule a meeting with my elected official.
- I can be part of a kick-ass, statewide organization that schedules a strategic meeting for my bishop along with bishops from 3 other denominations with my elected official after holding a news conference on our issue.

For this, you need an organization with broad collaborations that knows how to embrace the serendipitous after an abundance of planning.

The School Bus Trip & the Senate
Rules Chair

- Secure a legislative blueprint from another state and make it your own
- Hold back something in your pocket
- Who's got skin in this game?
- Weaponize the moral argument

The Willie Ann Glenn Act

- Look outside your state for models
- Not the usual suspects and leveraging self-interests
- Mobilize your multi-sector partners
- Marketing pros--priceless!

- One on the community level
- One on the federal level

Edits to NC BoS CoC Anti-Discrimination Policy

The NC BoS CoC Anti-Discrimination Policy guides program implementation and is updated yearly

- Built to mirror HUD's Equal Access Rule, the Anti-Discrimination policy prohibits overt acts of discrimination that prevent people from accessing services.
- Required for all agencies in the CoC. Mandatory training annually.
- The policy has strong protections for:
 - LGB and Transgender people seeking services
 - Families (Family Separation policy)
 - People of all faiths (Faith-based services policy)
 - People with grievances against their provider
- Discrimination on the basis of race and ethnicity is prohibited, but protections don't go beyond overt acts of discrimination (which are hard to prove anyway)

2022 Anti-Discrimination Policy included a new section on Equity

- Racial Equity Policy

- CoC agencies, staff, volunteers, and contractors must recognize that Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPOC) are disproportionately represented in the homeless services system and are often negatively impacted at disproportionate rates by economic and political systems, contributing to higher rates of homelessness. All agencies within the NC BoS CoC must take active steps to assess and reduce racial disparities in their agency and their community. These steps can include, but are not limited to:

1. Seeking regular racial equity training opportunities for all agency staff, volunteers, contractors, and board members.
2. Review the NC BoS CoC annual Racial Equity Assessment and develop plans to target disparities that persist in their community.
3. Actively work to increase racial diversity in hiring, especially in leadership or supervisory positions, and board member recruitment.
4. Actively recruit bi-lingual staff in hiring for client-facing positions.
5. Assess and make changes to agency policies and procedures that might disproportionately impact BIPOC clients, such as requiring criminal background checks for program entry.
6. Consider tracking your agency's data to ensure equal access to admission, housing, and other programming based on race.

Benefits and challenges of adding an Equity Section

- The existence of an equity section means that all agencies are required to have in their own P&Ps.
 - This requirement can then be leveraged later through the scorecard for ESG funding to make sure that agencies are implementing it.
- The Challenge is that we have no “silver bullet” for initiating an equity process at the agency level. Agencies have to want it for this work to be meaningful.
 - Language remains vague because we don’t offer a specific training to make people attend, for example (yet!).
- It’s a start!

Does the Racial Equity Subcommittee approve the proposed edits to the Anti-Discrimination Policy?

- Questions?
- Motion to approve?
